Illinois Executive Under Fire Renominated Handily—McAdoo Men Defeated

Chicago, April 9.—(By the A. P.)—Illinois Republicans added their endorsement of President Coolidge by giving him a majority over Hiram Johnson in yesterday's primary election, although the Californian after a vigorous campaign ran the President a close race in Chicago, where he helped found the Progressive party which nominated him for Vice-President several years ago.

Senator Johnson took an early lead in the returns from Chicago voters but later tabulations gradually cut down the Johnson advantage until with 800 precincts still missing the Californian had a lead of fewer than 3,000 votes.

Outside the metropolis President Coolidge kept an average majority of nearly 30 votes to the precinct which advantage it kept up would give the chief elector nearly 100,000 votes more than Johnson.

W. G. McAdoo, unopposed for presidential preference on the Democratic ticket, polled only about half the number of votes cast by Democrats in Chicago and his delegates to the Democratic national convention were defeated overwhelmingly by the state organization delegate ticket.

McCormick Behind
Democrats nominated A. Sprague of Chicago for United States Senator while Medill McCormick, Republican incumbent, with two-fifths of the vote in, was trailing former Governor Charles S. Deeney by 12,000 votes.

The hottest contest in the primary was for the Republican gubernatorial nomination and Governor Len Small, who had been bitterly opposed by Attorney General E. J. Bruner, handily won the nomination for another term by defeating State Senator T. G. Essington and carrying most of his supporters for other state offices through to victory.

In the Democratic gubernatorial race Norman Jones had a comfortable lead over O'Neill Browne, who advocated modification of the Volstead act.

CONCEDES VICTORY
Lincoln, Neb., April 9.—(By the A. P.)—Francis Harrison, campaign manager for Hiram Johnson in the Nebraska presidential preference primary, conceded victory to President Coolidge today.

HAS GOOD LEAD
Omaha, Neb., April 9.—(By the A. P.)—Nebraska is in the column of late favoring President Calvin Coolidge, it was indicated by unofficial returns from 751 precincts out of 1,936 in the state, reporting every vote except three.

These returns gave him 33,319 votes compared with 18,738 votes for Senator Hiram Johnson of California, his only opponent. The senate committee's loss of disclosures were among the issues injected into the re-primary campaign.

Senator George W. Norris, Republican of the independent type, whose friends charged that "eastern politicians" and "moneyed interests" were out to defeat him, was apparently renominated by a substantial plurality over former Representative Charles Sloan of Geneva, regarded as an administration man. Governor Charles W. Bryan was renominated Democratic candidate for Governor but who his Republican opponent would be next election has not been definitely determined.

EARLY FORKS SETTLER DIES
Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—Orlando H. Brenna, 72, resident of Grand Forks county for the last 46 years, for whom Brenna township was named, died here. Born in Hallingdal, Norway, he came to the United States 48 years ago, settling in Grand Forks county some two years later.

MINNESOTA MAN MISSING
East Grand Forks, Minn., April 9.—C. L. Thompson, former alderman of East Grand Forks and a plumber by trade, has been missing ever since last Tuesday, his wife reported to the police Monday. There is no reason known for his disappearance and it is feared that he has met with an accident.

HORSES ON RAMPAGE
Montreal, April 9.—Thousands of wild horses are overrunning the grazing lands in the Caribou district of British Columbia, damaging ranches and enticing domestic animals away. They are becoming such a nuisance that farmers are arranging a great roundup. The captured horses will be sold for $5 each.

OFFICER OF STATE HEALTH BOARD NAMED

Dr. Maysil Williams of Toronto to Head Division of State Department

Dr. Maysil M. Williams of Toronto, Canada, has been engaged as head of the division of child hygiene and public health nursing of the state health department, to succeed Dr. L. E. Boutelle, who resigned to accept a similar position in South Dakota. Dr. A. A. Whittemore, state health officer, announced today. Dr. Williams in her position will have charge of the administration of the Sheppard-Towner act, funds for which are supplied jointly by the state and federal governments.

Dr. Williams, according to Dr. Whittemore, is an expert in public health work, the graduate in the faculty of Medicine, University of Toronto, is a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario, served an internship at the Women's College Hospital, Rush Home, Toronto; spend some time in children's hospitals and has engaged in public health and child welfare work.

The Sheppard-Towner maternity act, designed to give mothers the benefit of expert advice from public health departments, is at present engaged in a strong campaign in Dunn, Cavalier and Williams counties, to acquaint people with the workings of the law through local conferences.

MINER TRIES TO TAKE LIFE

Thomas Jones, Well Known Wilton Man, Shoots Self

Wilton, N. D., April 9.—Thomas Jones, about 45, mine foreman in the Washburn Lignite Coal Company's mine, living in Chapin, the mining village, attempted to commit suicide about 6:30 o'clock this morning, according to officials, and his recovery is doubtful.

Jones, worried about financial matters, it is believed, went to the barn and shot himself with a 12-gauge shotgun, the charge entering the body to the left of the stomach. His wife found him there later. He walked to the house, supported by her. Medical aid was called. Jones did not lose consciousness and talked rationally to those about him. Jones, who was a former Pennsylvania miner and an expert being a pit boss in the lower levels of the mine, recently bought the Painted Woods lake resort, intending to run it in the summer. A little later he announced he would leave it. Yesterday he remained away from work, and walked about his yard a great deal. It is believed that worry over the prospect of a bad financial deal caused him to attempt to take his life. He has a wife and seven children.

IMPROVEMENT OF MISSOURI IS INDORSED

Association of Commerce Directors for Proposition to Make Stream Useful

Mbve Is Made to Secure Aid For Playground for City Through Foundation

A national policy for the development of rivers for transportation, particularly the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio, is favored by directors of the Association of Commerce, who last night discussed the proposition of the Mississippi Valley Association, on which is working to secure development of the Missouri river from the headwaters to the mouth of the river.

The organization urges government recognition of the need for development of the entire stream, as its first step in the program for actual creation of a better inland waterway.

The A. of C. directors endorsed house bill No. 3921, introduced by Representative Newton and now pending in the national body, for the improvement and completion of prescribed sections of the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The Mississippi Valley Association will hold a meeting in Kansas City April 11 and 12.

The A. of C. directors also endorsed a house resolution at the request of the flood commission of Pittsburgh, which proposes a national survey, which may eventually lead to a national policy which it is felt would benefit this section of the state eventually through control of, or impounding, waters of the Missouri near the source as a flood prevention measure.

Ask Playground
The A. of C. directors instructed the Secretary to take up the proposition of securing aid from the Harmon Foundation of New York for a playground. The Foundation offers sums up to $2,000 to assist cities in securing playgrounds, and has named Bismarck as an eligible city. In his letter the Secretary will call attention of the Foundation to the fact that Bismarck has spent $2,500 to $4,000 in playground work.

The directors endorsed the proposal to change the number of the National Parks Highway (Red Trail) from No. 3 to No. 1, and named Judge A. M. Christianson, Judge W. L. Auesle and Burt Finney as a committee of three to make representations to State Engineer W. G. Black along this line. Similar action has been taken in Fargo and other cities along the highway.

Referendum
The Bismarck Association has been asked, along with 1,200 other organizations in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to take a referendum vote on a proposed national policy of transportation development.

The policy is recommended by the national commerce. It provides for coordination of rail, water and highway transportation, continuation of the important principles of the transportation act of 1920, endorsement of the principle of recapture of a fair proportion of excess railroad earnings as in the public interest, supplementary legislation to encourage voluntary rail consolidations, suggestion of rates and services of motor common carriers to regulation by state and federal commissions, and requiring road users to pay the entire cost of maintenance of highways through special taxes levied against them.

HUGO STINNES SERIOUSLY ILL

Berlin, April 9.—The condition of Hugo Stinnes took a serious turn for the worse this afternoon. The industrial magnate has been ill for some time and has been twice operated on, the second time last Saturday.

LEADERS OF RIOTS JAILED

Manila, P. I., April 9.—Three leaders of recent outbreaks of fanaticism in Surigao province have been sentenced to death and 198 others were given sentences of 30 years imprisonment.

CONSUL'S BODY IS TAKEN HOME

Passenger, N. D., April 9.—Burial of George Henry Richardson, Jr., aged about 25, United States vice consul at Auckland, New Zealand, who died here, will be made at the home of his father at San Francisco, according to word received here.

Richardson was taken from a San Francisco train from which he had tried to jump, and was held here for treatment. He twice tried to take his life, and showed symptoms of having been drugged, according to attending physicians. In lucid intervals Richardson charged he had been drugged while on the train.

A brother of the dead man left San Francisco Monday and was expected to arrive here yesterday to take charge of the body.

The dead man's father is reported ill at San Francisco.

SEN. WHEELER INDICTED; SAYS CHARGE UNTRUE

Montana Solon, "Prosecutor" For Daugherty Committee, Sold Influence, Charge

PROBE WILL GO ON

Washington, April 9.—Investigation of the charges against Senator Wheeler of Montana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee, in the indictment returned against him in the federal court of Montana, was ordered today by the Senate.

A resolution which provides for a special investigation committee of five was adopted without a record vote. It was offered by Senator Walsh of Montana at the request of Wheeler.

Washington, April 9.—The Senate committee ordered to investigate the Department of Justice and the officials acts of Harry M. Daugherty announced after an executive session today that its inquiry would proceed further with force despite the indictment in Montana of Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor.

Great Falls, Mont., April 9.—United States Senator B. K. Wheeler, prosecutor of the senate Daugherty investigating committee, was indicted here by a federal grand jury on a charge of unlawfully receiving money as retainer fees to influence the issuance of oil and gas prospecting permits by the secretary of the interior and commissioner of the general land office.

John L. Slattery, United States district attorney who presented the case to the grand jury, stated that a warrant for Senator Wheeler's arrest would be telegraphed to Washington. The technical charge is violation of section 113 of the United States penal codes.

ENTERS DENIAL

Washington, April 9.—Senator Wheeler declared that he would not return immediately to Montana as a result of his indictment at Great Falls, but would remain and proceed with his work as prosecutor for the senate Daugherty investigating committee.

Any steps necessary in meeting the indictment, he indicated, could be taken in the first instance in the District of Columbia, so that he could continue actively in his committee work and not go to Montana immediately.

"There is absolutely nothing to the charges," he asserted in a brief formal statement. "This indictment is simply the result of my activities here on the investigating committee trying to show up the corruption in the department of justice."

With Senator Wheeler were indicted Gordon Campbell, oil geologist and operator and L. C. Stevenson, oil promoter and principal owner of an oil refinery. Campbell and Stevenson were the discoverers of the Sunburst-Kevon oil field in Montana. Other oil men of lesser prominence also were indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The grand jury charges that on two occasions Senator Wheeler accepted money improperly after he had been elected United States senator but before he had qualified for office, and on a third occasion agreed to accept money.

DEFENDS SELF

Washington, April 9.—Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, today brought the indictment returned against him in his home state to the attention of the Senate.

The Montana Senator entered the Chamber and a number of his Democratic associates went over to shake his hand. He got the floor on a point of personal privilege and Senator Brookhart, chairman of the Daugherty committee, called for a quorum to hear him. The Montana Senator first gave a brief resume of his personal career from his birth in Massachusetts to his entrance into public life in Butte where he said he incurred the enmity of one of the largest financial concerns in the state by voting for Senator Walsh, his colleague.

ECONOMIC AID TO GERMANY IS URGED BY BODY

Dawes, in "Covering Letter" on Report of Experts, Says New Policy Necessary

HOW THEY VIEW MATTER

Approached Problem Not From Standpoint of Penalties, But Results, They Say

Paris, April 9.—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, the unofficial American representative on the first committee which examined into the economic and financial situation in Germany, in a covering letter to the report of his committee tells the reparations commission that the committee's recommendations must be considered not as inflicting penalties, but as suggesting means for assisting the economic recovery of all European peoples and the entry upon a new period of happiness and prosperity unmenaced by war.

The covering of Gen. Dawes letter follows:

To the president of the reparations commission:

Sir:

Your committee has unanimously adopted a report upon the means for balancing the German budget and the measures to be taken to stabilize its currency which I now have the honor to submit.

Deeply impressed by a sense of its responsibility to your commission and to the universal conscience, the committee bases its plan upon these principles of justice, fairness and mutual interest in the supremacy of which not only the creditors of Germany itself but the world also have a vital and insistent concern.

With these principles fixed and accepted in that common good faith which is the foundation of all business and the best safeguard for universal peace, the committee's recommendations must be considered not as inflicting penalties but as suggesting means for assisting the economic recovery of all European people and the entry upon a new period of happiness and prosperity unmenaced by war.

"Since as a result of the war, the creditors of Germany are paying taxes to the limit of their capacity, we also must Germany be encouraged to pay taxes from year to year to the limit of her capacity. This is in accord with the just and underlying principle of the Treaty of Versailles, re-affirmed by Germany in its note of May 29, 1919, that the German scheme of taxation must be fully as heavy proportionately as that of any of the powers represented on the commission. More than this limit could be expected and less than this would relieve Germany from the common hardship and give to her an unfair advantage in the industrial competition of the future. The plan of the committee embodies this principle.

"The plan has been made to include flexible adjustments which from the very beginning tend to provide for the maximum of contributions consistent with the continued and increasing productivity of Germany, the constructive estimates of payments to be made in the near future are dictated by business prudence in outlining the basis of a loan and should not destroy the perspective as to the effects to be registered in the aggregate of eventual payments which will annually increase.

"The normal economic conditions and with productive restoration in Germany, the most hopeful estimates of the amounts received are justified without such restoration, such payments as may be obtained will be of little value in meeting the needs of creditor nations.

To insure the permanence of the new economic peace between the Allied governments and Germany, which involves the economic adjustment presented by the plan, there are provided the counterparty of those usual economic precautions against default on which are recognized as essential in all business relations involving express obligations.

The existence of safeguards in no way hampers or embarrasses the use of ordinary business contracts. The thorough effectiveness of these safeguards should not enhance the normal economic functioning of Germany and a fundamental importance to Germany and her creditors.

Great care has been taken in fixing the conditions of the supervision over Germany's internal organization so as to impose a minimum of interference consistent with proper protection. The plan submitted is fair and reasonable in its nature and if accepted is likely to lead to ultimate and lasting peace. The rejection of these proposals by the German government means the deliberate choice of a continuance of economic demoralization, eventually involving her people in hopeless misery.

In the preparation of this report, the committee has carefully covered a broad field of investigation. It has had the constant cooperation of able staffs of experts in gathering

HOSPITALS OF BISMARCK HOLD FIRST RANK

Miss Hoerman Tells Value in Commercial and Scientific Way to City

NEW ROTARY BOARD

Bismarck's hospitals and their value scientific and commercial to this vicinity was graphically given to the Rotarians at their noon luncheon today at the McKenney hotel by Miss Louis Hoerman, superintendent of the Bismarck hospital. She declared that Bismarck had the third largest clinic in the United States and that outside of the very large centers its laboratories were unsurpassed.

Dr. E. P. Quam of the April program committee presided and introduced Miss Hoerman. She praised the Rotary spirit and likened the Rotary emblem to a large wheel with a driving force for community service.

Gives Figures
Quoting definite figures, she revealed to Rotarians just how much is expended yearly by the hospital over which she presides and what quantities of supplies are purchased daily on the local market. In 1923 she declared there had been entered 2,101 patients of this number 255 came from Bismarck indicating the range of the territory covered. Forty to 45 gallons of milk are used daily, 100 of ice are consumed. The consumption often reaches 800 pounds a month. The fuel bill she gave as nearly $1,000 in January and with this the water is pumped, heat and electricity developed at a great saving to the institution. Nearly $100 a month in 20 is used for the various departments and 20 is an apt to hospital and laboratory work was expended last year.

The total amount of the expenditure, she declared was more than $12,000 a year. Other figures gave the scope of the work and she indicated in passing the large number of people brought to Bismarck yearly through the operations of both the Bismarck hospital which make this city one of the most important medical centers in the United States.

Billy Lawless Program
Referring to the directing operations at the state hospital for the Rotary conference told of the progress being made in converting the House Chambers into a hall and banquet room. Two Rotarians and his membership went to the state house this afternoon to do some of the heavy work. She said that the original project of having the original members of the Rotary when it received its charter papers. He showed a picture of the program as being a German song which is one of Billy Lawless' favorites. He told of the first function for which he has furnished the program.

Charmian Henry Doreland announced that Hilbig was after the 1925 conference and Grand Forks wanted to host it in 1925. Ed J. Flint of Devils Lake is being mentioned as the next district governor. L. S. Crawford, head of the Rotary club, boy welfare work told of his conference with the board of education relative to carrying on this work for another year. The three year period under Rotary auspices expires May 1.

J. L. Bell awarded a prize of $10 to one of four members who have had a perfect attendance record. Bess Ward drew the lucky slip. The other contenders were: E. J. Taylor, Ray Bergerson and L. K. Thompson.

The nominating committee named the following directors for the ensuing year and their choice was confirmed: R. J. Duemeland, J. L. Bell, V. J. La Rose, L. S. Crawford, George J. L. Bell.

DAWES COMMITTEE, IN REPORT TO REPARATIONS COMMISSION, GIVES PLAN FOR MEETING GERMAN DEBT

Declare, However, Germany Must Be Left Free to Exploit Her Own Economic Resources, and French and Belgians Must Take Their Hands Off Ruhr Industries and the Rhineland Railroads—American Given Important Post Under Plan and League of Nations Drawn in as an Arbitrator of Germany's Prosperity Progress.

Paris, April 9.—(By the A. P.)—The report of the experts who have been engaged for the past three months in the task of ascertaining Germany's capacity to pay reparations was handed to the reparations commission today. The two committees under the chairmanship of Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes and Reginald McKenna, respectively, have gone deeply into the intricacies of the many problems connected with reparations and as mentioned in the covering letter they approached the task "as business men anxious to obtain effective results."

The League of Nations is drawn into the reparations problem by the Dawes report, while an unofficial representative of the United States is slated for an important role in the experts' plan. An American member of the board of control for the proposed new gold bank of issue is quite likely to fill the important post of "Commissioner." His duty will be to decide when Germany's capacity to pay has been reached while the League finance committee will be asked to arbitrate if the Commissioner's decision in applying the "index of prosperity" is disputed by either Germany or the allies.

A business matter bereft of politics is how the experts describe the task they have just completed. They interpreted the object of their work as tending to the collection of the debt, rather than to the application of penalties with a purely economic solution in view.

Recognize Obligation
Recognizing the obligation of Germany to pay and declaring that she has resources with which to pay, the experts insist that if Germany does pay she must have her hands free to exploit her economic resources.

The experts carefully omit in their report mention of the Ruhr, but make it plain that the French and Belgians must satisfy themselves by leaving garrisons in the Ruhr, if they see fit, but taking their hand off the Ruhr and Rhineland railroad and the Ruhr industries.

The first prerequisite to the payment of reparations, the experts assert, is sound money in Germany. They propose to this end the establishment of a new gold bank of issue with 400 millions gold mark as the organization of which should be to the interest and profit of Germany and to the advantage of the allies, in co-operation.

Can Meet Requirements
Germany's production, they say, will enable her to meet her own requirements and raise amounts to apply to reparations as contemplated in the plan. These payments fixed on a sliding scale, run from 110 million gold marks in 1926 to two billion five hundred million in 1928.

In order to prevent these payments from affecting adversely Germany's financial situation, the experts declare, has been fixed, making it possible to judge whether the amounts of scheduled payments are or are not beyond her capacity. The index is to be based upon German exports and imports, the total budget receipts and expenditures, railroad traffic, the monetary value of the consumption of sugar, tobacco, beer and alcohol by the total population and the consumption of coal. Percentage will be fixed on the average statistics covering these items first for three years, then for six years, the percentage of each of the six groups compared with the base average of the six percent results forming the index.

Value of Railroads
Germany's railroads, estimated by the experts to be worth 26 billion gold marks, with a net earning capacity as high as one billion gold marks yearly, were found to be a valuable means for securing reparations payments and aiding German finances. The experts propose a blanket mortgage of 11 billion gold marks on the entire German railroad system, bearing five percent interest with one percent sinking fund annually.

The interest and sinking fund on the mortgage they figure, represent less than three percent on the entire capital value of 26 billion. The interest will not be required during the period of reorganization but it is paid in 1924 and 1925, increasing on a sliding scale to 660 million in 1928 and 1929, which the experts thought to become normal years.

Industry Must Aid
German industry, under the plan, is expected to provide five billion gold marks, represented by first mortgage bonds bearing the same rate of interest as the railroad bonds. This amount, the experts explain, less than the total debt of the industrial undertaking in Germany before the war.

The interest on these bonds will be paid on a progressive scale, beginning the second year with 10 percent and increasing to 15 percent in the third year and five percent, plus one percent sinking fund, the fourth year. In the event of default in the payment of the interest on the sinking fund or principle upon either railroad or industrial bonds, provision is made for the sale of the bonds.

A national policy for the development of rivers for transportation, particularly the Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio, is favored by directors of the Association of Commerce, who last night discussed the proposition of the Missouri Valley Association, which is working to secure development of the Missouri river from the headwaters to the mouth of the river.

The organization urges government recognition of the need for development of the entire stream, as its first step in the program for actual creation of a better inland waterway. The A. of C. directors endorsed house bill No. 3921, introduced by Representative Newton and now pending in the national body, for the improvement and completion of prescribed sections of the Ohio, Mississippi and Missouri rivers. The Mississippi Valley Association will hold a meeting in Kansas City April 11 and 12.

The A. of C. directors also endorsed a house resolution at the request of the flood commission of Pittsburgh, which proposes a national survey which may eventually lead to a national policy which it is felt would benefit this section of the state eventually through control of, or impounding, waters of the Missouri near the source as a flood prevention measure.

Ask Playground

The A. of C. directors instructed the Secretary to take up the proposition of securing aid from the Harmon Foundation of New York for a playground. The Foundation offers sums up to $2,000 to assist cities in securing playgrounds, and has named Bismarck as an eligible city. In his letter the Secretary will call attention of the Foundation to the fact that Bismarck has spent $5,500 to $4,000 in playground work.

The directors endorsed the proposal to change the number of the National Parks Highway (Red Trail) from No. 3 to No. 1, and named Judge A. M. Christianson, Judge W. L. Nusselt and Burt Finney as a committee of three to make representations to State Engineer W. G. Black along this line. Similar action has been taken in Fargo and other cities along the highway.

Referendum

The Bismarck Association has been asked, along with 1,200 other organizations in the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, to take a referendum vote on a proposed national policy of transportation development. The policy is recommended by the national commerce. It provides for coordination of rail, water and highway transportation, continuation of the important principles of the transportation act of 1920, endorsement of the principle of recapture of a fair proportion of excess railroad earnings as in the public interest, supplementary legislation to encourage voluntary rail consolidations, subjection of rates and services of motor common carriers to regulation by state and federal commissions, and requiring road users to pay the entire cost of maintenance of highways through special taxes levied against them.

TEAM GUEST OF CLUB

Grand Forks, N. D., April 9.—Members of the Grand Forks high school basketball team were guests of the "Y Men's" club at the Y. M. C. A. Monday. Other guests, who delivered brief addresses, were Paul Davis, director of physical education at the state university; J. S. Hotten of the Y. M. C. A. college at Chicago; and J. W. Adams, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at Fargo.

CONSUL'S BODY IS TAKEN HOME

Fessenden, N. D., April 9.—Burial of George Henry Richardson, Jr., aged about 25, United States vice-consul at Auckland, New Zealand, who died here, will be made at the home of his father at San Francisco, according to word received here.

Richardson was taken from a Soo train from which he had tried to jump, and was held here for treatment. He twice tried to take his life, and showed symptoms of having been drugged, according to attending physicians. In brief intervals Richardson charged he had been drugged while on the train.

A brother of the dead man left San Francisco Monday and was expected to arrive here yesterday to take charge of the body.

The dead man's father is reported ill at San Francisco.

SEN. WHEELER INDICTED; SAYS CHARGE UNTRUE

PROBE WILL GO ON

Washington, April 9.—Investigation of the charges against Senator Wheeler of Montana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee, in the indictment returned against him in the federal grand jury indictment, was ordered today by the Senate.

A resolution which provides for a special investigation committee of five was adopted without a record vote. It was offered by Senator Walsh of Montana at the request of Wheeler.

Washington, April 9.—The Senate committee appointed to investigate the Department of Justice and the officials acts of Harry M. Daugherty announced today that its investigation would proceed further with force, despite the indictment in Montana of Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor.

Great Falls, Mont., April 9.—United States Senator B. K. Wheeler, investigating committee, was indicted here by a federal grand jury on a charge of unlawfully receiving money as a bribe to influence the issuance of oil and gas prospecting permits by the secretary of the interior and commissioner of the general land office.

John Slatery, United States district attorney, who presided over the grand jury, stated that a warrant for Senator Wheeler's arrest would be telegraphed to Washington. The technical charge is violation of section 113 of the United States penal code.

ENTERS DENIAL

Washington, April 9.—Senator Wheeler declared that he would not return immediately to Montana as a result of his indictment at Great Falls, but would remain and proceed with his work as prosecutor for the senate Daugherty investigating committee.

After steps necessary in meeting the indictment, he indicated, could be taken in the first instance in the District of Columbia, so that he could continue actively in his committee work and not go to Montana immediately.

"There is absolutely nothing to the charges," he asserted in a brief formal statement. "This indictment is simply the result of my activities here on the investigating committee trying to show up the corruption in the department of justice."

With Senator Wheeler were indicted Gordon Campbell, oil geologist and operator and L. C. Stevenson, oil promoter and principal owner of an oil refinery. Campbell and Stevenson were the discoverers of the Sunburst-Kevin oil field in Montana. Other oil men of lesser prominence also were indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud.

The grand jury charges that on two occasions Senator Wheeler accepted money improperly after he had been elected United States senator but before he had qualified for office, and on a third occasion agreed to accept money.

Washington, April 9.—Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, today brought the indictment returned against him in his home state to the attention of the Senate.

ECONOMIC AID TO GERMANY IS URGED BY BODY

Dawes, in "Covering Letter" on Report of Experts, Says New Policy Necessary

HOW THEY VIEW MATTER

Paris, April 9.—Brigadier General Charles G. Dawes, the unofficial American representative on the first committee which examined into the economic and financial situation in Germany, in a covering letter to the report of his committee tells the reparations commission that the committee's recommendations must be considered not as inflicting penalties, but as suggesting means for assisting the economic recovery of all European peoples and the entry upon a new period of happiness and prosperity unmenaced by war.

The covering of Gen. Dawes' letter follows: To the president of the reparations commission: "Sir: Your committee has unanimously adopted a report upon the means for balancing the German budget and the measures to be taken to stabilize its currency which I now have the honor to submit.

"Deeply impressed by a sense of its responsibility to your commission and to the universal conscience, the committee bases its plan upon those principles of justice, fairness and mutual interest in the supremacy of which not only the creditors of Germany itself but the world also have a vital and insuring concern.

"Since as a result of the war, the creditors of Germany are paying taxes to the limit of their capacity, so also must Germany be encouraged to pay taxes from year to year to the limit of her capacity. This is in accord with the just and underlying principle of the Treaty of Versailles, re-affirmed by Germany in its note of May 29, 1919, that the German scheme of taxation must be fully as heavy proportionately as that of any of the powers represented on the commission. More than this limit could not be expected and less than this would relieve Germany from the common hardship and give to her an unfair advantage in the future. The plan of the committee embodies this principle.

"The plan has been made to include flexible adjustments which from the very beginning tend to produce a maximum of contributions consistent with the continued and increasing productivity of Germany; the conservative estimates of payments to be made in the near future are dictated by business prudence in outlining the basis of a loan and should not destroy the perspective as to the effects to be registered in the aggregate of eventual payments which will annually increase.

"With the normal economic conditions and with productivity restored in Germany, the most hopeful estimates of the amounts received are justified without such restoration, such payments as may be obtained will be of little value in meeting urgent needs of creditor nations.

"To insure the permanence of the new economic peace between the Allied governments and Germany, which involves the economic adjustments presented by the plan, there are provided the counterparts of those usual economic precautions against demoralization which are recognized as essential in all business relations involving express obligations.

"The existence of safeguards in no way hampers or embarrasses the ease of ordinary business contracts. The thorough effectiveness of these safeguards should not embarrass the normal economic functioning of Germany and is of fundamental importance to Germany and her creditors.

"Great care has been taken in fixing the conditions of the supervision over Germany's internal organization so as to impose a minimum of interference consistent with proper protection. The plan submitted is fair and reasonable in its nature and if accepted is likely to lead to ultimate peace and prosperity.

"The rejection of these proposals by the German government means the deliberate choice of a continuance of economic demoralization, eventually involving her people in hopeless misery.

HOSPITALS OF BISMARCK HOLD FIRST RANK

Miss Hoerman Tells Value in Commercial and Scientific Way to City

NEW ROTARY BOARD

Bismarck's hospitals and their value scientific and commercial to this vicinity was graphically given to the Rotarians at their noon luncheon today at the McKenzie hotel by Miss Louise Hoerman, superintendent of the Bismarck hospital. She declared that Bismarck had the third largest clinic in the United States and that outside of the very large centers its laboratories were unsurpassed.

Dr. E. P. Quinn of the April program committee presided and introduced Miss Hoerman. She praised the Rotary spirit and likened the Rotary emblem to a large wheel with a driving force for community service.

Gives Figures
Quoting definite figures she revealed to Rotarians just how much is expended yearly by the hospital over which she presides and what quantities of supplies are purchased daily on the local market. In 1923 she declared there had been entered 2,401 patients of this number 365 came from Bismarck indicating the range of the territory covered. Forty 45 gallons of milk are used daily, tons of ice are consumed. The sugar consumption often reaches 800 pounds a month. The fuel bill she gave as nearly $1,000 in January and with this the water is pumped, heat and electricity developed at a great saving to the institution. Nearly $100 a month in gas is used for the various departments and gas as an aid to hospital and laboratory work was commended highly.

The total payroll of the institution, she declared was more than $35,000 a year. Other figures gave the scope of the work and she indicated in passing the large number of people brought to Bismarck yearly through the operations of both the Bismarck hospitals which make this city one of the most important medical centers in the United States.

Laist on Program

"Billy" Laist who is directing operations at the State Capitol today, Rotary conference told of the progress being made in converting the House Chambers into a ball and banquet room. Twenty Rotarians under his leadership went to the state house this afternoon to do some of the heavy work. Speaking of his Americanization, he declared that the proudest moment of his life was when he received his second papers. He topped his number on the program by singing a German song which is one of "Billy's" favorites. He told of the many functions for which he has furnished the "trappings."

Chairman Henry Duemeland announced that Hilbing was after the 1925 conference and Grand Forks wanted to land it in 1926. Ed. F. Flint of Devils Lake is being mentioned as the next district governor.

L. S. Craswell, head of the Rotary club's boy work told of his presentation of a letter to a conference with the board of education relative to carrying on this work for another year. The three year period under Rotary auspices expires May 1.

J. L. Bell awarded a prize of $10 to one of four members who have had a perfect attendance score. His brother Ward drew the lucky slip. The other contenders were: E. J. Taylor, Ray Bergeson and L. K. Thompson.

DAWES COMMITTEE, IN REPORT TO REPARATIONS COMMISSION, GIVES PLAN FOR MEETING GERMAN DEBT

Declare, However, Germany Must Be Left Free to Exploit Her Own Economic Resources, and French and Belgians Must Take Their Hands Off Ruhr Industries and the Rhineland Railroads—American Given Important Post Under Plan and League of Nations Drawn in as Arbitrator of Germany's Prosperity Progress.

Paris, April 9.—(By the A. P.)—The report of the experts who have been engaged for the past three months in the task of ascertaining Germany's capacity to pay reparations was handed to the reparations commission today. The two committees under the chairmanship of Brigadier-General Charles G. Dawes and Reginald McKenna, respectively, have gone deeply into the intricacies of the many problems connected with reparations and as mentioned in the covering letter they approached the task "as business men anxious to obtain effective results."

The League of Nations is drawn into the reparations problem by the Dawes report, while an unofficial representative of the United States is slated for an important role in the experts' plan. An American member of the board of control for the proposed new gold bank of issue is quite likely to fill the important post of "Commissioner." His duty will be to decide when Germany's capacity to pay has been reached while the League finance committee will be asked to arbitrate if the Commissioner's decision in applying the "index of prosperity" is disputed by either Germany or the allies.

WINTER WHEAT DROP FORECAST

Washington, April 9.—A winter wheat crop of 549,415,000 bushels this year was forecast today by the Department of Agriculture, assuming average abandonment of acreage and average influence of harvest. Last year's crop was 572,340,000 bushels.

The average condition of winter wheat on April 1 was 83 percent of a normal, compared with 75.2 on that date last year and 82.5 the 10-year average. There was a decrease of 5 points in the condition between Dec. 1 last year and April 1 this year, compared with an average decline of 4 points in the last 10 years.

MURPHY'S LEAD OFFICIALLY IS SHOWN LARGER

Defeated H. H. Perry for Democratic Committeeman By Majority of 451 Votes

OTHER OFFICIAL TOTALS

R. B. Murphy, elected Democratic national committeeman in the March primary, had a 451 majority over H. H. Perry, his opponent, according to official tabulations made today by the state canvassing board. The vote was: Murphy 6,782; Perry 6,331. W. G. McAdoo, unopposed Democratic candidate for the preferential preference, received 11,273 votes.

The five Democratic electors nominated by the Democrats received votes as follows: Hugh McDonald, 7,710; A. G. Kennedy, 7,406; W. E. Breen, 6,381; G. H. Trimble 6,267; J. F. Strauss, 6,158.

The vote on the measures was announced as follows: Constitutional amendments—county officials, for 70,447; against 49,762. State bond issue, for 64,996; against 57,345.

Initiated measure—Farm labor lien, for 51,550; against 78,174.

Referred measures—parish elections, for 54,867; against 65,747; non-partisan elections, for 53,014; against 66,621; party central committees, for 53,449; against 64,093. Bank tax validating measure, for 56,717; against 64,189.

TOOTHBRUSH GIFTS

Pekin, April 9.—Hsiong-Kej-wu, Chinese military leader, has presented each of his soldiers with a handkerchief inscribed with eight characters reminding them of their meritorious service. Other generals are distributing wash cloths and toothbrushes.

Can Meet Requirements

Germany's production, they say, will enable her to meet her own requirements and raise amounts to apply to reparations as contemplated in the plan. These payments fixed on a sliding scale, run from 110 million gold marks in 1926 to two billion five hundred million in 1929.

In order to prevent these payments from affecting adversely Germany's financial stability, an index of prosperity has been fixed, making it possible to judge whether the amounts of scheduled payments are or are not beyond her capacity. The index is to be based upon German exports and imports, the total budget receipts and expenditures, railroad traffic, the monetary value of the consumption of sugar, tobacco, beer and alcohol by the total population and the consumption of coal. Percentages will be fixed on the average statistics covering these bases, first for three years, then for six years, the percentage of each of the six groups compared with the base being separately computed with the average of the six percent results, forming the index.

Value of Railroads

Germany's railroads, estimated by the experts to be worth 26 billion gold marks, with a net earning capacity as high as one billion gold marks yearly, were found to be an available means for securing reparations payments and aiding German finances. The experts proposed a blanket mortgage of 11 billion gold marks on the entire German railroad system, bearing five percent interest with one percent sinking fund annually.

The interest and sinking fund on the mortgage, they figure, represents less than three percent on the entire capitalized value of 26 billion. Full interest will not be required during the period of reorganization but the payment of 30 million marks will be asked in 1924 and 1925, increasing on a sliding scale to 660 million in 1927 and 1928, which the experts think ought to become normal years.

Industry Must Aid

German industry, under the plan, is expected to provide five billion gold marks, represented by first mortgage bonds, bearing the same rate of interest as the railroad bonds. This amount, the experts explain, is less than the total debt of the industrial undertaking in Germany before the war.

The interest on these bonds will be paid on a progressive scale, beginning the second year with two and a half percent, five percent the third year and five percent, plus one percent sinking fund, the fourth year. In the event of default in the payment of the interest on the sinking fund or principle upon either railroad or industrial bonds, provision (Continued on page 6)

"PROTECTION" TO BOOZE MEN INVESTIGATED

Daugherty Committee Turns to Consideration of Illinois Conditions

AGENT ON WITNESS STAND

Washington, April 8.—Continuing its inquiry into the prohibition of liquor in Illinois, the Daugherty investigating committee today heard further charges of tax enforcement and "protection" by federal and state officials.

Three I. Armstrong, a prohibition agent, who testified at length at yesterday's session, again was on the witness stand. One of his complaints was that the "Western Breweries" case was not pressed on matters from the Department of Justice in Washington, although the local investigators believed the case should be pressed.

Armstrong said he and other agents had seized 15 half barrels of three percent beer from the brewery and recommended prosecution. W. O. Potter, United States Attorney at St. Louis, the witness said, told him last he had instructions from the department to drop the case and that was done.

It was stated by the Secretary of the brewery company at the time, Armstrong said, that a $5,000 offer in settlement had been accepted by the government.

The witness told also of failure to prosecute in the Garden City Brewery case and of efforts to remove him as enforcement agent because he would not stop playing liquor at saloons they did not want prosecuted.

Armstrong estimated that he had reported on "one thousand to fifteen hundred" cases but had never been called as a witness in a criminal case until six months ago. The cases for the most part went through "with small fines," the witness said.

Asked who the federal prosecutor was in these cases, Armstrong said, U. S. District Attorney Clyde at Chicago, a Democratic hold-over, was in office most of the time.

He expressed the opinion that Chicago had been kept in by the Republican administration because the Chicago brewery ring "felt they could handle Charles Clyde."

Speaking of injunction proceedings handled by Special Assistant Attorney General Middlekauff and his assistant, August Cruise, Armstrong said they had conducted the case so as to delay service long enough to let the original owners get out. The witness declared there would be days of two or three years in "closing up these cases. He had recently been called in three or four cases which he had almost forgotten, he added.

Senator Harrison Serves Notice in the Senate

Washington, April 8.—Senator Harrison Democrat, Mississippi, notified the Senate Agricultural Committee today that unless the Ford Muscle Shoals bill is taken up for consideration by the committee on Tuesday, April 22, he will make a motion on the floor of the Senate that the committee be discharged from further consideration of the bill and the bill put on the Senate calendar as unfinished business.

The Senate committee has agreed to begin consideration on Wednesday morning, April 16, of all Shoals bills and to continue in session one week, unless it was found necessary to extend the time.

CITY'S CHIEF ARRESTS CITY'S COMMISSIONER

Jamestown, N. D., April 8.—The chief of police of Jamestown today arrested the city water commissioner here.

Police started a round up of those not having 1924 auto licenses on cars. Among those caught was Harvey Augsberger, city water commissioner, whose Ford truck bore a 1923 auto license.

Fine and costs assessed by the justice of the peace amounted to $10.50. It is reported that the auditor and city water commissioner will be made personally responsible for the fine.

EARNINGS OF N. P. SLUMP

Less Than For Last Year. Elliott's Report Shows

New York, April 8.—The Northern Pacific Railway Company earned a net income of $12,081,425 in 1923, Howard Elliott, chairman of the board, reported to stockholders at the annual meeting. Earnings were equal to about $5.22 a share on the $248,000,000 capital stock, compared with $6.07 in 1922.

Emphasizing the road's transportation efficiency, Mr. Elliott said expenses took 37.78 cents of each dollar of operating revenue, the best figure for seven years except 1917 when it was 32.44 cents and 1919 when it was 35.44 cents.

Asserts Car Owner Forced Dealer Growth

"If selling a car was all there is to car dealership, no automobile store today would include any other equipment than a desk and a car stationery," says W. E. LaRue of LaRue Motor Sales Co.

"These modern automobile sales establishments everywhere in the United States which include well-equipped service departments, and large stocks of parts and accessories, exist primarily to enable the conscientious dealer to discharge his responsibility for the satisfaction of the one to whom he sells cars."

"Car buyers too seldom realize the importance of local responsibility for a car. They wouldn't think of making an equally large investment with anybody but an established, reputable, responsible business house."

"But they are often prone to buy a car from anybody and later to find out how much more than merely a car should be delivered for the price."

LIONS CLUB SECRETARY IS GUEST IN CITY

Local Organization Entertains Walter Mashek, District Secretary of Body

DINNER IS TENDERED

The Lions Club held its regular Monday meeting at 6:30 last evening at the Grand Pacific hotel and a large number greeted Walter Mashek, District Secretary of the International Lions Clubs, who was a guest of the club. President J. L. Wehe, presided at the meeting and introduced him to the Bismarck Lions.

Mr. Mashek spoke on the development and organization of Lionism in a very interesting and entertaining manner. He stated that Lionism was founded upon service at its inception and was the pioneer club of its kind to be organized, and that other and older clubs and organizations later changed their ideas and aims and adopted the same idea of service to the community and humanity in general; that while the organization is not as old as some of the other organizations now covering the same fields of activity, he added that it is growing very rapidly and will soon be one of the leading organizations of this kind from the rapid increase of its membership.

Other guests of the evening were Rev. Hutheson, Field Extension Lecturer for the Grand Lodge of Masons in this state, and L. S. Craswell, a representative from the Rotary Club. Mr. Craswell spoke to the Lions Club upon the "Boy Welfare Work" in Bismarck and explained the plan to continue the work already commenced for the benefit of our boys from year to year on a yearly basis. The matter was referred to the Civic committee and they are to report at the next meeting of the club. Rev. Hutheson delighted the members with his relating of Scotch stories during the dinner and these were greatly enjoyed.

Following the business meeting the club adjourned and in company with their wives were entertained at the home of J. P. Spies at a most pleasant social evening, at which Mr. Mashek was the guest of honor. Seven tables were at play at a game of Progressive Bridge Whist, with honors going to Mrs. Thomas Hall and L. J. Wehe, each receiving a box of candy as a prize. Punch was served during the course of the game and following the game refreshments were served by the committee consisting of Mrs. Overt Olson, Mrs. Frank Hedden, Mrs. L. J. Wehe and Mrs. A. M. Brzezol.

TREASURER OF COLLEGE PUT ON THE STAND

H. W. McArdle Called to Testify in Case of F. C. Heaton in Grand Forks

Grand Forks, April 8.—H. W. McArdle, secretary of the North Dakota Agricultural College, was put on the witness stand today by the state in the trial of F. C. Heaton, former treasurer of the Scandinavian American Bank of Fargo regarding the funds of the Agricultural College kept in the bank and the accounts of which Heaton is alleged to have juggled in connection.

McArdle said he had no record of $10,000 which appeared on the books of the bank in August, 1923, when it is alleged by the state to have been placed there by Heaton to conceal a shortage in the funds when it was turned over to the Bank of North Dakota. He is expected to be on the stand again this afternoon or Wednesday.

IMMIGRATION VOTE NEARS

House and Senate in Race to Pass Measure

Washington, April 8.—Pressing toward a vote on the Johnson immigration bill which must come before the end of the week the House resumed consideration of the measure which calls for conclusion of general debate by 11 o'clock tonight. This entails a night session.

In a race with the Senate, which has an immigration bill of its own differing materially from the House measure, the latter chamber went into session at 11 a. m., an hour earlier than usual. Opponents of the Johnson bill, although admitting they were outnumbered, continued their onslaught, declaring its provisions for a two percent quota based on the 1900 census discriminated against prospective immigrants from southern and southeastern Europe in favor of those from northern and northwestern parts of the continent.

The bill is designed to supplement the present three percent immigration law based on the 1910 census which expires June 30, next.

TARIFF BODY DENIES STAND ON HAUGEN BILL

Washington, April 8.—The tariff commission issued a formal statement today denying that Chairman Marvin spoke in behalf of the commission in testifying before the House ways and means committee recently on the McNary-Haugen agricultural export bill.

"The chairman made it perfectly plain and the committee well understood," the statement said, "that what was said by him was not in any way intended to express the view of the commission."

As a result of Mr. Marvin's statement before the committee the impression gained ground in some quarters that the commission itself was opposed to the measure and some criticism was forthcoming. Mr. Marvin's associates on the commission objected and to clarify the situation the statement was made.

Woman Found By Humane Body Heavily Fined

Minot, N. D., April 8.—One of the heaviest sentences ever imposed on a "first offense" liquor law violator in Minot was passed on Mrs. Dan Weaver in county court by Judge William Murray following a plea of guilty to a charge of making moonshine.

Mrs. Weaver is the woman, whom officers of the Humane Society sought as a destitute mother and found her distilling moonshine, last week.

The woman was sentenced to serve four months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $210 and in default of the payment of fine and costs to serve an additional 60 days in jail. The sentence was suspended by the court.

TWICE PROVEN

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Bismarck evidence—doubly proven.

Mrs. N. F. Reynolds, 417 Madison Ave., Bismarck, says: "I suffered from pains through my back and kidneys, and other symptoms of kidney trouble. My ankles swelled and I found it difficult to get my shoes on at times. After trying several different kidney remedies without getting the least help I finally got Doan's Pills at the Lehart Drug Co., and a few convinced me that they were a good remedy. I continued using Doan's until all trace of the trouble had entirely disappeared.

Over twelve years later, Mrs. Reynolds said: "I think as highly of Doan's Pills as when I recommended them before. I have used them on several occasions since when I have taken cold and noticed a slight return of my former trouble and have always obtained prompt relief." 50c at all dealers. CAVALRY SENT TO MINE WAR BY GOVERNOR

Reported Rifle Firing Between Mine Workers and National Guardsmen

IN KENTUCKY HILLS

Frankfort, Ky., April 8.—Governor Fields today ordered a troop of cavalry to "Strait Creek" in southeastern Kentucky to reinforce the national guardsmen already on duty in that disturbed coal mining area.

Decision to send the cavalry was made on report from Adjutant Kehoe that guardsmen and miners had exchanged spirited rifle fire near the Liberty Coal and Coal Company mines, which are being operated on a non-union basis. No casualties are reported.

TO SEND OTHERS

Frankfort, Ky., April 8.—(By the A. P.)—Indications are that another National Guard unit may be sent to Strait Creek, Kentucky, heart of the mine war, Governor Fields informed the Associated Press before noon today.

"Another unit is ready for instant movement," he said, "machine guns, cavalry units, and infantry have been dispatched."

HORROR REIGN SAID TO PREVAIL

Washington, April 8.—A reign of horror prevails in Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, bodies being thrown on the outskirts of the city with natives actually dying in-squalor, it was reported today in advices to the state department.

TOO MUCH MONEY

The testimony in Washington relative to campaign contributions to the major parties serves to call to attention again a practice which has been growing for several years, and which is admittedly an ill of the body politic of the nation. The rising cost of campaigns conducted on a nationwide scale naturally brought about the necessity of diligent effort upon the part of treasurers of large political organizations to fill the campaign war chests. The money for them has necessarily come to some extent from individuals and organizations who must deal with the government, and this is increasingly true as the government continues to dip into the fields of business activity. In spite of the innuendo and slander emanating from Washington it can be fairly said that most of the wealthy individuals and organizations who have thus given money have not sought to make corrupt use of the place of vantage given them. Now and then there is corruption as a result, and it serves to call again forcibly to the attention of the people of the nation the condition which has arisen.

The change in methods of national campaign managers has not been accomplished as a result of their initiative alone. There has grown up a body of lesser politicians, and many good citizens, who regard a campaign fund as fair game, and there is a rush to get a part of it. The system undoubtedly tests the moral fibre of many candidates and officials, as well as those who are in a position as a result of their financial assistance to bring undue pressure to bear to gain entrance into high councils.

The new system of conducting campaigns on a lavish scale has not grown up, however, without a reason. Campaign leaders have not spent money lavishly simply for the joy of spending. The indifference of voters, their refusal to initiate a sane study of the problems they are called upon to decide at the polls, their capitulation to prejudice and whim, all have been factors in the growth of the menace of huge campaign funds and huge contributions. Will H. Hays as chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1920 launched a "dollar a member" campaign fund and rigidly limited the amount of contributions. But the response was not general as it should have been; the money obtained was not sufficient to meet the campaign expenses, and it was necessary to seek large contributions to make up the deficit.

The testimony in Washington has brought a recurrence of attacks on the system and of suggestions for a cure. The problem appears to be one of the many that cannot be solved by legislative decree—there must be a general participation in politics by good citizens accompanied by a willingness to help in meeting the expenses of the campaigns.

BACK YONDER IN YOUTH

How did the wishbone get its reputation as a symbol of good luck? Long ago, probably, when man still was in the savage state. At a meal, whoever got the wishbone got the best part of the fowl—the white meat of the breast.

Rivalry for the breast of the fowl must have caused many a tussle. You can picture two barbarians at a prehistoric boarding house, both reaching for the breast at the same time. Grasping this part of the fowl's anatomy, one was bound to emerge with a larger piece of meat than his rival. Possibly, in this, is the origin of the custom of breaking a wishbone, the lucky winner of the large section having gotten what he wished for.

All supposition, of course. But the wishbone's reputation as an emblem of good luck is older than recorded history.

You recall how, in childhood, you were eager to get the wishbone. It was a real prize, even if its value was imaginary.

Today, with childhood years behind you and gradually being dimmed by the mists of the past, you probably wouldn't give a cent for a basket of wishbones.

Behold, here, a great loss. For firm belief in a wishbone, as a bringer of luck, is an illusion. And when we lose our illusions, there is not much left in life.

The wishbone is not the only illusion we lose as we grow older. What would you not give for the lost thrills and illusions of youth? Our minds run along this channel at this time of year, as spring advances. Spring is the season of youth—and its symbol.

Oh, for the thrill of the first spring plunge into the old swimming hole! Or the walk through the woods, gathering the first flowers as nature awakens after her long sleep. A bird, soaring skyward, means little or nothing now; in youth, it was a thrill.

Life gets duller as we grow older. Nature, kindly, removes us from the stage before life gets too old.

As old age approaches, the human tendency is to lose faith in nearly everything, as we already have lost faith in the wishbone's magic power. Youth is faith—hope—illusion—imagination—mythical values. Old age is a state of mind—the disappointment of disillusion.

CROP IMPERILED

A crop worth over two billion dollars a year is imperiled by the "borer" insect now advancing westward into the corn belt.

If a foreign nation started fighting us to make us pay that much indemnity a year, every one would rally against it.

Why do we submit tamely, almost indifferently, to insect enemies while similar onslaughts from rival nations would start us enthusiastically on the warpath? One reason is that professional patriots, war bankers, munitions makers and propagandists can't make large and sudden fortunes rousing the mob against insects.

Women look better than men, but it takes them longer to do it.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

FAIR PLAY TO HOME MERCHANTS

The Duluth Herald has struck a note of loyalty to home interests that ought to be heard in other cities, including Minneapolis. It protests editorially against patronage by Duluth citizens of representatives of stores in other cities who set up temporary sample rooms in hotels and private homes and, through the business done with unthinking customers, make unfair encroachments on the trade field of home merchants. The Herald puts it squarely up to the citizens of the town to ask themselves if they do right by themselves, by their neighbor business men, by the employing of these business men, or by the community in which they live and earn a livelihood. The editor says partly:

These outside stores pay no taxes here. They do not contribute a penny, all combined, to local charitable institutions. They take no part in Duluth's civic activities. They do not pay to local workers. They contribute nothing whatever to the building up of Duluth, but so far as they take patronage away from deserving local enterprises they work to tear down Duluth.

The local merchants, on the other hand, pay rent and taxes here; they contribute to the churches and charities of the community; they patronize the professional men who live here; they and their employees spend their money in the local stores and shops; they buy their automobiles of local dealers; they work, through their own and other civic organizations, to build up Duluth and make it grow and prosper. The citizen who spends his money in working to build up Duluth. The citizen who spends his money in other cities is building up those other cities at the expense of his own.

On this indictment The Herald elaborates to the same purpose of keeping for Duluth merchants and citizens what is, in all fairness and reason, their own. It finds that it is not conscious disloyalty, but thoughtless people who do the harm. It says that the benefits of their patronage with outsiders do no thing to deserve these benefits, who have no prior claim on the financial and economic resources of the community.

Local merchants are community builders who not only sell goods, but put the spirit and fact of service into their business, do their full part in hearing public burdens, help to underwrite the agencies that function for human welfare at home, and are not content with the home town in desirable terms to the world, whether the medium be the public prints, a pageantry of local industry, or a municipal celebration signaling the presence of a distinguished visitor or commemorative of a cardinal event in the history of the community.

The home merchants have standards they must abide by, merchandise and service values they must maintain, if they are to continue successful in business. The temporary invader from outside is too often unbound by these requirements. He sells and flits, taking with him money for which, considered from the standpoint of the community, he leaves no adequate equivalent.

Patronizing home trade is more than fair play; it is individual self-interest, of a legitimate sort, and it is sound domestic economics.—Minneapolis Tribune.

MANDAN NEWS

MRS. STARK CLUB HEAD

By unanimous vote, Mrs. Anna Stark was re-elected president of the Mandan Civic League at the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. Stark on Third Ave. Northwest. Mrs. Stark who has served as president of the Civic League since its organization fourteen years ago, is now entering on her fifteenth year as head of the organization. Other officers elected were: vice president, Mrs. B. A. Antymann; secretary, Mrs. Francis McDonald and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Rowe. District superintendents chosen were: first, Mrs. Anton Grunfeldt; second, Mrs. William Simpson; third, Mrs. W. D. Hughes; fourth, Mrs. J. P. Hess and fifth, Mrs. J. I. Rovig. Mrs. Countryman, Mrs. Hess and Mrs. H. G. Taylor were selected as delegates to the seventh district federation meeting in May.

RECEPTION TO BE HELD

All Elks of Mandan and the surrounding country will have opportunity to greet J. C. McFarland of Watertown, S. D., grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E. of the United States when he visits this city next Saturday.

Mr. McFarland and party are due to arrive in the city in the morning train No. 1 and will be entertained at luncheon at noon at the Lewis & Clark hotel. During the afternoon a public reception and smoker will be held at the Elks hall when all the Elks may meet their chief.

An automobile ride during the day to the principal points of interest in and around Mandan and Bismarck is scheduled, weather permitting.

TO COLUMBUS, OHIO

Mrs. Anna Stark and son, George, will leave tonight for Columbus, Ohio, where they will spend about a month with Miss Elsie Stark extension worker with the National Dairy society, and with Dawson

Stark, a medical student at the University of Ohio.

RETURNS HOME
Mrs. George H. Wilson has returned from Northfield, Minn., where she had gone with her daughter, Miss Margaret Wilson, on her return to Carleton College after spending the spring vacation with her parents here. Mrs. Wilson stopped off in Fargo where she was a guest of Mrs. J. A. Burger.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Nick crawled through the little hole in Doofoony Land that ended in the old stump in the meadow.

Right ahead of them hopped the frog that the fairy had changed. A few minutes before he had been a cotton frog with green tissue paper skin and wire toes. Now he was a real live frog from head to foot, and he was making for the pond where he had always longed to live.

"Kerchug! Chuglug! Chuglug! Klunk!" he kept saying over and over, trying every new word that came into his head. "I never could do that before. How handsome my voice!"

Soon he reached the pond and stood for a minute looking down into the muddy water.

"At last," he gurgled, "I can dive and swim, and splash, and toast myself in the sun, and catch flies! Hooryay!"

With that he gave one wild leap and dived head first into the water. "He's all right!" said Nancy. "As happy as a fly in a sugar barrel. Let's go back and tell Mister Fuzz Wuzz all about him!"

"All right," agreed Nick, "come on."

Just then they saw a brownish figure long and slim and furry slip close to the edge of the water as silently as a shadow. There it waited.

The twins waited, too, for they knew exactly who it was. They had seen him before and they knew that he liked frogs—to eat! It was Marty Mink.

The long brown figure slipped into the water without a ripple and sank like a lead weight.

"Oh, he'll get him! He'll get him!" But her voice frightened the mink. He crawled out of the water on the opposite side of the pond and sneaked off into the grass.

At that minute the little green frog poked up his head. "What's wrong?" he croaked. "What did you scream for? You made me awfully nervous."

"The mink was after you," said Nancy. "He nearly got you and if he had he'd have eaten you at one bite."

"Minks!" trembled the froggie. "I never heard of such things. Do they actually eat frogs? I never knew anything else frogs except ducks."

"Oh!" shouted Nick. "That shows you don't know much. Didn't you know that minks and weasels and owls and martens and nearly all the wild creatures just love frogs? And that they're never safe a minute?"

"No, no, no, no, no!" croaked the frog. "I never knew that! I thought that all they had to do was to enjoy themselves. Oh, do take me back to Doofoony Land and have the fairy turn me back into a nice cotton frog again. Nothing ever hurt me and I was very happy."

The twins picked him up. "I'll tell you another time what happened then."

LVII (continued)

And he did not believe for a moment that she had gone to Washington.

She had gone home to think—think.

And if he followed Dinwiddie's advice and remained here she might think too long. And if he followed and insisted upon seeing her, the result might be more fatal still. He knew nothing of those personalities who may have concealed from him. For all he knew she might have depths in her nature as black as the bottomless pit.

And God only knew what the man had said to her. . . . Should he let her fight it out by herself? What in heaven's name should he do? Whatever happened, this divorce interval, like some exquisitely adjusted musical instrument, had been hopelessly jarred out of tune. He almost hoped she would not return. Let it remain a perfect memory. . . . They could marry in New York and return here, when she was his wife. . . . If he had not already lost her. . . . What in God's name was the thing for him to do? He'd go mad if he stayed here, and if he went he might regret it for the rest of his days. Why could not light be vouchsafed him?

Fortunately he knew her room for he had carried up her luggage. He ran lightly up the stairs and tapped on her door. A startled sleepy voice answered. He opened the door and put in his head.

"Come downstairs at once, Gora," he said peremptorily. "I must talk to you."

She came down in a moment, clad in a scarlet kimono, her hair hanging in thick braids. With her large round forehead exposed she looked not unlike a gnome, but curiously young.

"What on earth is the matter, Clavey?" she asked as she pushed her chair as close to the fire as possible. "It has something to do with this sudden trip of Mary's, I suppose. Mr. Dinwiddie said she had been called to New York on important business, and the others accepted the explanation as a matter of course, but I'll confess I wondered."

And this man Hohenhauer had brought her to her senses; no doubt

Prince Hohenhauer's picture, and had read the accompanying text with considerable interest, an interest augmented, not unnaturally, by his exceeding good looks. That same day she had met a Viennese at dinner who had talked of him with enthusiasm and stated definitely that he was the one hope of Austria.

Gora Dwight was a very ambitious woman and revelled in the authority that fame and success had brought her. She was also as disillusioned in regard to men as any unmarried woman could be; although quite aware that if she had lacked a gift to entice her emotions to her brain, she no doubt would even now be looking about for some man to fall in love with. But her pride was spared a succession of humiliating anti-climaxes, and she had learned, younger than most women, or even men, that power, after sex has ceased from troubling, is the dominant passion in human nature.

And Madame Zattiany was twenty years older than herself, and had drained the jeweled chalice to the dregs. And for many years more she had enjoyed power, revealed in it, looked forward, Gora made no doubt, to a greater and greater exercise of it. Power had become the master passion of her life.

Like men in the same case, she had indulged herself, during a period of enforced inaction, with an exciting love adventure. That she had fallen in love, romantically in love, with this young man, whom so many women loved, and who, no doubt, had given her the full benefit of all his pent-up ardors—Gora could imagine those love scenes—she had not questioned, in spite of Madame Zattiany's carefully composed tones when speaking of him, and her avoidance of so much as the exchange of a meaningful glance with him in public. Up here "Mary" had ceased to be a woman of the world, she had looked like a girl of twenty; and that she was in love and recklessly happy in the fact, was for all to see. That had been one of her most interesting divergences to the novelist, Gora Dwight—but a phase. Gora was not deluded.

And this man Hohenhauer had brought her to her senses; no doubt

"Clavey, still too nervous to sit down, jerked out the whole story, omitting only the old love affair with the man who had exercised so strong an influence on Mary Zattiany's early life.

"You see," he concluded, "there are two things: Austria had taken the place in her affections that women of her age generally concentrate on human beings—it became almost a sacrament. And then—for nearly twenty years she had hated everything in men but their minds. Sex was not only dead but a detestable memory. After that rejuvenescence she had never cast a thought to loving any man again. That mental habit, at least, was fixed. When I met her she was a walking intellect. . . . I thought I had changed all that. . . . up here I had not a doubt left. . . . but now. . . . I don't know. . . . Put that cold-blooded mind of yours on it and tell me what to do."

"Let me think a minute, Clavey."

As he resumed his restless march, Gora sent her mind traveling out of the mountains and far to the south, and tried to penetrate the brain of Mary Zattiany. She could not visualize her in the bed of a casual hotel or sitting in the chair of a parlor or saw her skimped the interval and saw her next day sitting in that intimate room of hers upstairs; the room, at surely, where she would think out her problem.

Gora had studied Madame Zattiany with all the avidity of the artist for a rare human theme, and she believed that she knew her as well as Clavey did, if not better. She had also not failed to observe of that either to a mind both wary, imaginative and coldly analytical. And what had he come up here for except to ask her to marry him—to share his power? She dismissed the Washington inference with the contempt it deserved. Mr. Dinwiddie was a very experienced and astute old gentleman, but he always settled on the obvious like a hen on a porcelain egg.

What a manifest destiny! What an ideal match. . . . She sighed almost envying her. But it would be almost as interesting to write about as to experience. After all, a novelist had things all her own way, and that was more than ever the Zattianys could hope for.

Then she remembered poor Clavey and looked up at him with eyes that were wholly sympathetic.

"I don't think there's a doubt," she said, "that Prince Hohenhauer came up here to ask her to marry him. You can see for yourself what such a match would mean for him, for aside from that indisputable genius of hers—trained, I later years by himself—she has great wealth and few scruples; and where he failed to win her to his purpose, she, with her superior charm, and every feminine intuition sharpened by an uncommon experience of men and public life, would succeed. She may hate him, as Mr. Dinwiddie says—for the moment. But even if she continued to hate him that would not prevent her from marrying him if she believed he could help her to power. If it had not been for you I don't believe she would have hesitated a moment."

Business Women Holds Excellent Banquet, Meeting

An unusually splendid meeting was held last evening at the new club rooms of the Business and Professional Women, when the members met for their regular club dinner at 6:30. Following the dinner, a short business meeting was held at which plans were gone over for the Trade Carnival which the club is putting on this week at the Auditorium. Plans were also completed for the State Convention which will be held in this city the later part of May. The program has been arranged and all plans are now practically completed for the entertainment of the delegates from over the entire state. Plans were also made for the network for the summer season.

The club decided to hold a kitchen shower at the next regular meeting of the club. The new club rooms will permit the furnishing of a kitchen and as there are no utensils on hand at present the holding of the shower will solve the furnishing of the kitchen rather completely.

Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson addressed the members of the club following the business session, upon the Public Life and Accomplishments of Thomas Jefferson. This proved most interesting and was greatly enjoyed. He related how as a citizen he had been instrumental in the founding of the Virginia University; his service to the people as Governor of Virginia; his active part in the drafting of the Declaration of Independence; and his work in France, previous to his presidency. The purchase of the Louisiana Territory was pointed out as the big thing of importance during his administration and the one thing that should interest the people of the Northwest most. The talk was followed in a most fitting manner by the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Miss Dorothy Duken, a member of the club.

The singing of patriotic songs marked the close of a most successful meeting and fittingly observed the Thomas Jefferson memorial, that are being held in the United States this week in an effort to raise funds with which to purchase his old Virginia home as a memorial to his services to the nation.

MOTHERS' CLUB

Members of the Mothers' Club were entertained by Mrs. C. H. Schoregge yesterday afternoon at her home on Sixth Street. Responses to roll call were made on the Near East and following a very important business meeting, Mrs. Price Owens read a splendid paper on "Earning and Saving as Factors in Development of Character."

The club voted to join the General Federation of Clubs and also voted to go on record as being in favor of the budgeting of expenses of the Community Council. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. A. P. Lohr.

ENTERTAINS TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Members of the Tuesday Bridge Club were entertained by Mrs. Joseph Lischow yesterday afternoon at her home on Avenue B. Three tables were at play during the afternoon with honors going to Mrs. E. A. Brink and Mrs. F. A. Lahti.

L. T. L. MEETING

Country Club Planning Dance

The Bismarck Town and Country Club will hold its formal opening on Monday night, April 28, with a brief business meeting, election of officers, dance and a luncheon. It was announced today. The spring-like weather has brought out golf and tennis players earlier than usual, and it was decided to make the annual business meeting a social affair as well, opening the clubhouse earlier than heretofore for social functions.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

"Are you sure, John, that you never loved the mother of your child?" I asked my husband truthfully.

"I can't answer that question honestly, Leslie. A man thinks he loves many women for many things, and I sometimes think he misses the real love because he is unfortunate enough not to meet the one woman who is THE woman, who satisfies all that his mind, soul and body craves; the woman who is real and loyal as a friend through good and ill, whose hand he can clasp in closest comradeship or who will set his blood tingling to love's sweetest measure; the woman who has a face so fair that he may love to gaze, whose brain is big enough to cope with his and whose soul is so broad that he knows that truth, sympathy and perfect trust find judgment there."

"Beside being the woman I have just described, Leslie, I have found in your something more, Dearest, your great loving heart is so tender that at my slightest touch you seem to drop all other attributes, all other thoughts save those of Love."

"Leslie, you have made this world more beautiful for me than I have ever thought it could be. I cannot lose you now—I cannot. Do not punish me for something I did before I knew you before you had come into my life to show me that God made a man in his own likeness and that only when he allows himself to sink to his baser level he becomes the lesser thing than God intended him to be."

Jack's voice trailed off into silence. I could not speak; in fact, I could not bring my brain to realize it all. Even all the beautiful things he had just said to me about myself did not affect my consciousness until after a while. Then I knew that no man could have said them unless he meant them all.

Little Marquise, did ever your kindly lover say anything sweeter to you?

At the time, however, my tongue just refused to form any words, and the silence began to hurt us both with a torture unspokenable.

"Leslie, Leslie, speak to me! Tell me that you will forgive me."

"When did you know that little Jack belonged to you, John? I found myself asking. My tongue seemed saying things of which I had no thought, no intuition."

"It seemed hours before Jack answered my question."

"It was a few weeks afterward. Paula wrote to Sid, and he wrote me, telling me that she had confessed what she had done in disposing of her baby. It was too late to say anything then; besides, I was afraid."

"Poor girl, how she must have suffered!" I stirred in surprise and wondered if I were I who had spoken those words. I had no intention of saying them before they came out. But honestly, little Marquise, the only thing I could think about was the look of agony upon that poor girl's face when she sat in my beautiful nursery with her own baby clasped in her arms, and couldn't own it. It was then that she said:

"Shall we give him back?" I asked John. "I will do so if you wish it."

"Not for all the world," I answered. "I would give you up more easily than him."

Business Women Holds Excellent Banquet, Meeting

An unusually splendid meeting was held last evening at the new club rooms of the Business and Professional Women, when the members met for their regular club dinner at 6:30. Following the dinner, a short business meeting was held at which plans were gone over for the Trade Carnival which the club is putting on, this week at the Auditorium. Plans were also completed for the State Convention which will be held in this city the later part of May. The program has been arranged and all plans are now practically completed for the entertainment of the delegates from over the entire state. The club also made for the activities for the summer season.

The club decided to hold a kitchen shower at the next regular meeting of the club. The new club rooms will permit the furnishing of a kitchen and as there are no utensils on hand at present the holding of the shower will solve the furnishing of the kitchen rather completely.

Judge Sveinbjorn Johnson addressed the members of the club following the business session, upon the Public Life and Accomplishments of Thomas Jefferson. This proved most interesting and was greatly enjoyed. He related how as a citizen he had been instrumental in the founding of the Virginia University; his service to the people as Governor of Virginia; his active part in drafting the Declaration of Independence, and his work in France, previous to his presidency. The purchase of the Louisiana Territory was pointed out as the largest thing of importance during his administration and the one thing that should interest the people of the Northwest most. The talk was followed in a most fitting manner by the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Miss Dorothy Daken, a member of the club.

The singing of patriotic songs marked the close of a most successful meeting and fittingly observed the Thomas Jefferson memorial that are being held in the United States this week in an effort to raise funds with which to purchase his old Virginia home as a memorial to his services to the nation.

MOTHERS' CLUB
Members of the Mothers' Club were entertained by Mrs. C. H. Schorger yesterday afternoon at her home on Sixth Street. Responses to roll call were made on the Near East and following a very important business meeting, Mrs. Price Owens read a splendid paper on "Earning and Saving as Factors in Development of Character."

The club voted to join the General Federation of Clubs and also voted to go on record as being in favor of the budgeting of expenses of the Community Council. The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. A. P. Lenhart.

ENTERTAINS TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB
Members of the Tuesday Bridge Club were entertained by Mrs. Joseph Breslow yesterday afternoon at her home on Avenue B. Three tables were at play during the afternoon with honors going to Mrs. E. A. Brink and Mrs. F. A. Lahr.

L. T. L. MEETING

Country Club Planning Dance

The Bismarck Town and Country Club will hold its formal opening on Monday night, April 28, with a brief business meeting, election of officers, dance and a lunch; it was announced today. The spring-like weather has brought out golf and tennis players earlier than usual, and it was decided to make the annual business meeting a social affair as well, opening the clubhouse earlier than heretofore for social functions.

TOO MUCH MONEY

The testimony in Washington relative to campaign contributions to the major parties serves to call to attention again a practice which has been growing for several years, and which is admittedly an ill of the body politic of the nation. The rising cost of campaigns conducted on a nationwide scale naturally brought about the necessity of diligent effort upon the part of treasurers of large political organizations to fill the campaign war chests. The money for them has necessarily come to some extent from individuals and organizations who must deal with the government, and this is increasingly true as the government continues to dip into the fields of business activity. In spite of the innuendo and slander emanating from Washington it can be fairly said that most of the wealthy individuals and organizations who have thus given money have not sought to make corrupt use of the place of vantage given them. Now and then there is corruption as a result, and it serves to call again forcibly to the attention of the people of the nation the condition which has arisen.

The change in methods of national campaign managers has not been accomplished as a result of their initiative alone. There has grown up a body of lesser politicians, and many good citizens, who regard a campaign fund as fair game, and there is a rush to get a part of it. The system undoubtedly tests the moral fibre of many candidates and officials, as well as those who are in a position as a result of their financial assistance to bring undue pressure to bear to gain entrance into high councils.

The new system of conducting campaigns on a lavish scale has not grown up, however, without a reason. Campaign leaders have not spent money lavishly simply for the joy of spending. The indifference of voters, their refusal to initiate a sane study of the problems they are called upon to decide at the polls, their capitulation to prejudice and whim, all have been factors in the growth of the menace of huge campaign funds and huge contributions. Will H. Hays as chairman of the Republican National Committee in 1920 launched a "dollar a member" campaign fund and rigidly limited the amount of contributions. But the response was not general as it should have been; the money obtained was not sufficient to meet the campaign expenses, and it was necessary to seek large contributions to make up the deficit.

The testimony in Washington has brought a recurrence of attacks on the system and of suggestions for a cure. The problem appears to be one of the many that cannot be solved by legislative decree—there must be a general participation in politics by good citizens accompanied by a willingness to help in meeting the expenses of the campaigns.

BACK YONDER IN YOUTH

How did the wishbone get its reputation as a symbol of good luck? Long ago, probably, when man still was in the savage state. At a meal, whoever got the wishbone got the best part of the fowl—the white meat of the breast.

Rivalry for the breast of the fowl must have caused many a tussle. You can picture two barbarians at a prehistoric boarding house, both reaching for the breast at the same time. Grasping this part of the fowl's anatomy, one was bound to emerge with a larger piece of meat than his rival. Possibly, in this, is the origin of the custom of breaking a wishbone, the lucky winner of the large section having gotten what he wished for.

All supposition, of course. But the wishbone's reputation as an emblem of good luck is older than recorded history.

You recall how, in childhood, you were eager to get the wishbone. It was a real prize, even if its value was imaginary.

Today, with childhood years behind you and gradually being dimmed by the mists of the past, you probably wouldn't give a cent for a basket of wishbones.

Behold, here, a great loss. For firm belief in a wishbone, as a bringer of luck, is an illusion. And when we lose our illusions, there is not much left in life.

The wishbone is not the only illusion we lose as we grow older. What would you not give for the lost thrills and illusions of youth? Our minds run along this channel at this time of year, as spring advances. Spring is the season of youth—and its symbol.

Oh, for the thrill of the first spring plunge into the old swimming hole! Or the walk through the woods, gathering the first flowers as nature awakens after her long sleep. A bird, soaring skyward, means little or nothing now; in youth, it was a thrill.

Life gets duller as we grow older. Nature, kindly, removes us from the stage before life gets too old.

As old age approaches, the human tendency is to lose faith in nearly everything, as we already have lost faith in the wishbone's magic power. Youth is faith—hope—illusion—imagination—mythical values. Old age is a state of mind—the disappointment of disillusion.

CROP IMPERILED

A crop worth over two billion dollars a year is imperiled by the "borer" insect now advancing westward into the corn belt.

If a foreign nation started fighting us to make us pay that much indemnity a year, every one would rally against it.

Why do we submit tamely, almost indifferently, to insect enemies while similar onslaughts from rival nations would start us enthusiastically on the warpath? One reason is that professional patriots, war bankers, munitions makers and propagandists can't make large and sudden fortunes robbing the mob against insects.

Women look better than men, but it takes them longer to do it.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

FAIR PLAY TO HOME MERCHANTS

The Duluth Herald has struck a note of loyalty to some interests that ought to be heard in other cities, including Minneapolis. It protests editorially against patronage by Duluth citizens of representatives of stores in other cities who set up temporary sample rooms in hotels and private homes and through the business done with unthinking customers, make unfair encroachments on the trade field of home merchants. The Herald puts it squarely up to the citizens of the town to ask themselves if they do right by themselves, by their neighbor business men, by the employees of these business men, or by the community in which they live and earn a livelihood. The editor says partly:

These outside stores pay no taxes here. They do not contribute a penny, all combined, to local charitable institutions. They take no part in Duluth's civic activities. They do not pay to local advertising. They contribute nothing whatever to the building up of Duluth but so far as they take patronage away from deserving local enterprises, they work to tear down Duluth.

The local merchants, on the other hand, pay rent and taxes here; they contribute to the churches and charities of the community; they patronize the professional men who live here; they and their employees spend their money in the local stores and shops; they buy their automobiles of local dealers; they work through their own and other civic organizations, to build up Duluth and make it grow and prosper. The citizen who spends his money working to build up Duluth. The citizen who spends his money in other cities is building up those other cities at the expense of his own.

On this indictment The Herald elaborates to the same purpose of keeping for Duluth merchants and citizens what is, in all fairness and reason, their own. It finds that it is not fair to the community, that thoughtless people to share the benefits of their patronage with outsiders who do nothing to deserve these benefits, who have no prior claim on the financial and economic resources of the community.

Local merchants are community builders who not only sell goods, but put the spirit and fact of service into their business; do their full part in hearing public burdens; help to underwrite the agencies that function for human welfare at home, and are not found wanting when the summons comes to publish the home town in desirable terms to the world, whether the medium be the public press, a pageantry of local industry, or a municipal celebration signifying the presence of a distinguished visitor or commemorative of a cardinal event in the history of the community.

The home merchants have standards they must abide by, merchandise and service values they must maintain. If they are to continue successful in business, they must often unbound by these requirements. He sells and fits, taking with him money for which, outside the community, he leaves no adequate equivalent. Patronizing home trade is more than fair play; it is individual self-interest, of a legitimate sort and is sound domestic economics. Minneapolis Tribune.

MANDAN NEWS

MRS. STARK CLUB HEAD

By unanimous vote, Mrs. Anna Stark was re-elected president of the Mandan Civic League at the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. Stark on Third Ave. Northwest. Mrs. Stark has been president of the Civic League since its organization fourteen years ago, and now entering on her fifteenth year as head of the organization. Other officers elected were: vice president, Mrs. R. A. Countryman; secretary, Mrs. Frank McDonald and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Rowe. District representatives chosen were: first, Mrs. Anton Grunewald; second, Mrs. William Simpson; third, Mrs. W. D. Hughes; fourth, Mrs. J. P. Hess and fifth district, Mrs. J. L. Kovig. Mrs. H. C. Taylor was selected as delegate to the seven district federation meeting in May.

RECEPTION TO BE HELD

All Elks of Mandan and the surrounding country will have opportunity to greet J. G. McFarland of Westmont, S. D., grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. E. of the United States when he visits this city next Saturday.

Mr. McFarland and party are due to arrive in the city in the morning on Train No. 1 and will be entertained at luncheon at noon at the Laramie Hotel. During the afternoon a public reception and smoker will be held at the Elks hall when all the Elks may meet their chief.

An automobile ride during the afternoon to the principal points of interest in and around Mandan and Bismarck is scheduled, weather permitting.

TO COLUMBUS, OHIO

Mrs. Anna Stark and son, George, will leave tonight for Columbus, Ohio, where they will spend about a month with Mrs. Elsie Stark extension worker with the National Dairy society, and with Dawson

Will Troubles Never Cease?

Stark, a medical student at the University of Ohio.

RETURNS HOME

Mrs. George H. Wilson has returned from Northfield, Minn., where she had gone with her daughter, Miss Margaret Gypson, on her return to Carleton College after spending the spring vacation with her parents here. Mrs. Wilson stopped off in Fargo where she was a guest of Mrs. J. A. Burgen.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Nancy and Nick crawled through the little hole in Doofunny Land that ended in the old stump in the meadow.

Eight ahead of them hopped the frog that the fairy had changed. A few minutes before he had been a section from with green tissue paper skin and was now. Now he was a real live frog from head to foot, and he was making for the pond where he had always longed to live.

Kercho! Kercho! Kercho! Kercho! "Klunk!" he kept saying over and over, using every new word that came into his head. "I never could do that before. How handsome my voice is!"

Soon he reached the pond and stood for a minute looking down into the muddy water.

"At last," he gurgled, "I can dive and swim and splash and toast myself in the sun, and catch flies. Hooryay!"

With that he gave one wild leap and dived head first into the water. "Ho! all right!" said Nancy. "A happy as a fly in a sugar barrel. Let's go back and tell Mister Fuzz Wazz all about him?"

"All right," agreed Nick, "come on."

Just then they saw a brownish figure long and slim and furry slip close to the edge of the water and silently as a shadow. There it waited.

The Twins waited, too, for they knew exactly who it was. They had seen him before and they knew that he liked frogs to eat. It was Marty Mink.

The long brown figure slipped to the water without a ripple and sank from view.

"Oh, he'll get him! He'll get him!" screamed Nancy.

But her voice frightened the frog. He crawled out of the water on the opposite side of the pond and sneaked off into the grass.

At that minute the little green frog poked up his head. "What's wrong?" he croaked. "What do you scream for? You made me jump!"

The mark was after you, said Nancy. He nearly got you and he had had been eaten you at one bite.

"Mink!" trembled the frog. He never heard of such things. Do they actually eat frogs? I never knew anything like frogs except ducks.

"Oh!" shouted Nick. "That's how you don't know much. Didn't you know that minks and weasels and owls and martlets and nearly all the wild creatures just like frogs. And that you're never safe a minute."

"No, no, no, no, no!" croaked the frog. "I never knew that. I thought that all they had to do was to eat themselves. Oh, do take me back to Doofunny Land and have the fairy turn me back into a nice cotton frog again. Nothing ever hurt me and I was very happy."

The Twins picked him up. "I'll tell you another time what happens next."

And he did not believe for a moment that she had gone to Washington. She had gone home to think—think.

And if he followed Dinwiddie's advice and remained here she might think too long. And if he followed and insisted upon seeing her, the result might be more fatal still. He knew nothing of those personal allies she may have concealed from him. For all he knew she might have depths in her nature as black as the bottomless pit.

And God only knew what the man had said to her. . . . Should he let her fight it out by herself? What in heaven's name should he do? Whatever happened, this divorce interval, like some exquisitely adjusted musical instrument, had been hopelessly jarred out of tune. He almost hoped she would not return. Let it remain a perfect memory. . . . They could marry in New York and return here, when she was his wife. . . . If he had not already lost her.

What in God's name was the thing for him to do? He'd go mad if he stayed here, and if he went he might regret it for the rest of his days. Why could not light be vouchsafed him?

Gora. Fortunately he knew her room for he had carried up her luggage. He ran lightly up the stairs and tapped on her door. A startled sleepy voice answered. He opened the door and put in his head.

"Come downstairs at once, Gora," he said peremptorily. "I must talk to you."

She came down in a moment, clad in a scarlet kimono, her hair hanging in thick braids. With her large round forehead exposed she looked not unlike a gnome, but curiously young.

"What on earth is the matter, Clavey?" she asked as she pushed her chair as close to the fire as possible. "It has something to do with this sudden trip of Mary's, I suppose. Mr. Dinwiddie said she had been called to New York on important business, and the others accepted the explanation as a matter of course, but I'll confess I wondered."

And this man Hohenhauer had brought her to her senses; no doubt!

"I don't think there's a doubt," she said, "that Prince Hohenhauer came up here to ask her to marry him."

Clavey, still too nervous to sit down, jerked out the whole story, omitting only the old love affair with the man who had exercised so strong an influence on Mary Zattiany's early life.

"You see," he concluded, "there are two things: Austria had taken the place in her affections that always settled on the obvious like women of her age generally concentrate on human beings—it became almost a sacrament. And then—then for nearly twenty years she had hated everything in men but their minds. Sex was not only a detestable memory. After that rejuvenescence she had never cast a thought to loving any man again. That mental habit, at least, was fixed. When I met her she was a walking intellect. . . . I thought I had changed all that. . . . up here I had not a doubt left. . . . but now. . . . I don't know. . . . Put that cold-blooded mind of yours on it and tell me what to do."

"Let me think a minute, Clavey." As he resumed his restless march, Gora sent her mind traveling out of the mountains and far to the south, and tried to penetrate the brain of Mary Zattiany. She could not visualize her in the bed of a casual hotel or sitting in the chair of a parlor car, so she skipped the interval and saw her next day sitting in that intimate room of hers upstairs; the room, assuredly, where she would think out her problem.

Gora had studied Madame Zattiany with all the avidity of the artist for a rare human theme, and she believed that she knew her as well as Clavey did, if not better. MARDI GRAS OF TRADE CARNIVAL WILL FEATURE MANY UNIQUE STUNTS

A real community affair will be presented tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club in the Mardi Gras of Trade Carnival at the Auditorium. A glance at the program reveals some of the city's leading talent. More than 100 of Bismarck's leading business concerns will be represented in various ways, which will furnish entertainment for the people of the city and surrounding territory.

The carnival will open with a beautiful floral display and will close with two interesting tableaux, the one depicting a bride with her chest of silver and the other showing the styles in dress of a century ago and of the present day.

In the play written especially for this carnival several of the leading men of the city will take part and splendid comedy and musical numbers will be presented during the evening's entertainment.

Interesting exhibits are to be made by a number of the business concerns of the city which have never been displayed in public before. The tent sale is now on and a packed house is expected to greet this annual Mardi Gras which the committee plans to equal if not exceed any presented heretofore.

FINALE

Bootlegged At Dance, Are Held

Fargo, N. D., April 8.—Morris Coyier and Emmett Cain, both Venmar, N. D., were giving dancers a ball held at the Village of Viobe, big town bootleg service Saturday night, according to reports on their arrest which were received at the federal prohibition headquarters here recently.

According to these reports, the officials, parked in an automobile just outside the dance hall, saw a stream of men from the dance floor wending their way to a certain Ford car between dances. Just then the car drove away but soon returned and the procession again began.

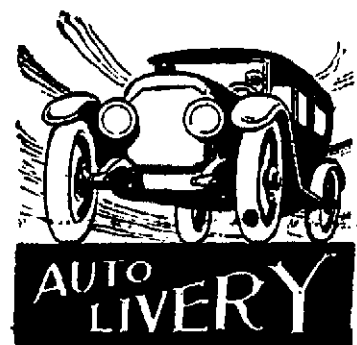

Then the officials raided the car and took Coyier and Cain with a quantity of colored moonshine.

The men were charged with possession and the car was returned to the owner on evidence that it had been used without his knowledge or consent.

FINALE

Bootlegged At Dance, Are Held

Fargo, N. D., April 9.—Morris Poyrier and Emmett Cain, both of Kenmare, N. D., were giving dancers a ball held at the Village of Niobe, big town bootleg service Saturday night, according to reports on their arrest which were received at the federal prohibition headquarters here recently.

Officials, parked in an automobile just outside the dance hall, saw a stream of men from the dance floor wending their way to a certain Ford car between dances. Just then the car drove away but soon returned and the procession again began.

Then the officials raided the car and took Poyrier and Cain with a quantity of colored moonshine.

The men were charged with possession and the car was returned to the owner on evidence that it had been used without his knowledge or consent.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE TALKED

Plan Discussed by Committee in Meeting Here

The proposition of a city baseball league for the coming summer was discussed in a meeting by a committee at the Association of Commerce offices yesterday afternoon. The committee, composed of C. W. McDowell, chairman, George Bird, H. J. Woodmansee, L. S. Craswell and J. J. MacLeod, talked over plans for existing teams representing various business houses and clubs, to play during the summer.

It was decided by the committee to immediately seek the experience of other cities which have tried commercial leagues.

MARKET NEWS

GRAIN PRICES TAKE DROP

Good Weather Reports Are Bearish Factors Again

Chicago, April 9.—Grain prices underwent a little setback during the early dealings. Fine weather continued to be the chief influence, with trade lacking volume. No definite effect on values apparently resulted from publication of summaries of the Daves report, although some foreign selling of wheat here was evinced. When opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 1-4 to 3-8 cents lower, May $1.08 7-8 and July $1.03 5-8 to $1.03 3-4 were followed by a slight rally and then another sag.

Subsequently there was a notable lack of aggressive buying and further declines were witnessed. The close was unsettled at 1/2c to 3/4c net lower, May $1.01 1/2 to $1.01 1/4 and July $1.03 1/4 to $1.03 1/2.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR

Minneapolis, April 9.—Flour unchanged. Shipments 14,479 barrels. Bran $22.00.

Cattle receipts 6,000. Better grades beef steers averaging 1,100 pounds upwards 10 to 15 cents higher. Best natural steers held active $12.25.

Sheep receipts 7,000. Active. Fat lambs started to 25 cents higher.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

St. Paul, April 9.—Cattle receipts 2,500. Active, steady to strong. Bulk fat steers and yearlings $7.00 to $8.50. Fat she-stock selling most decline. Bulk $4.25 to $7.00. Better kind up to $7.50 and above. Bulls active, strong. Spots 25 cents higher. Best $4.25 to $4.60. Heavies up to $5.00.

Canners and cutters $2.50 to $2.50. Stockers and feeders active, steady. Bulk $5.25 to $6.75. Calves receipts 3,500. Strong to 25 cents higher. Bulk best lights $10; few above.

Hog receipts 16,500. Five to 10 cents higher. Good and choice 150 to 180 pound average $7.10 to top same. Bulk 200 to 275 pound average $7.00. Rough or heavy packing sows $6.00 to $6.25. Weighty slaughter pigs $6.75.

Sheep receipts 500. One load 63-pound clipped lambs $14.00. Common to medium naturals $13.00 to $14.50. Sheep scarce, steady.

KANSAS BANKER TELLS HOW HE WON FIGHT

Prominent Man Gives Tanlac Credit For Helping Him Win Battle With Stomach Trouble.

"That I am so strong, active and full of energy at seventy-six I can attribute only to the fact I have received from Tanlac. It has won my stamp of approval. I give it my unqualified endorsement."

The above statement was made, recently, by M. Nightser, a retired banker and farmer, of Sedgewick, Kan. Mr. Nightser was the first president of the Farmers State Bank of this place, and is still a director. He has lived in this section for a half century and enjoys the respect and esteem of all who know him. Speaking further of his experience with Tanlac, Mr. Nightser said:

"Before taking Tanlac I had been trying everything for three years in my efforts to get rid of stomach trouble, but just kept on getting worse and worse. My digestion seemed wrecked and I would suffer pain and misery for two or three hours after a meal. This indigestion also made breathing difficult, and I had no appetite. Again, a spell of flu, a few years ago, left me with such a weakness in my legs that I could hardly get about."

"I began taking Tanlac in October, 1922, and in a few weeks time my stomach was stopping me on the streets. I tell you how well I was looking. Tanlac had done what my wife and myself both thought impossible, uprooted all my troubles and built me up to all round good health. I consider that each bottle of Tanlac I took did me all of a thousand dollars worth of good."

"I still take Tanlac now and then as a tonic and I couldn't ask for better health and strength than I now enjoy. My appetite and digestion never fail me. I sleep fine and haven't an ailment to complain of. Tanlac will certainly stop a lot of needless suffering if it only has a chance."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

ECONOMIC AID TO GERMANY IS URGED BY BODY

(Continued from page 1) information, digesting it and presenting it. The committee has conducted on the ground an examination of officials of the German government and representatives of German labor, agriculture and industry. It has received from the German government and its representatives voluminous and satisfactory answers in response to written inquiries. In connection with various features of the report both for the purpose of gathering information and for advice, the committee called to its assistance outside experts of international reputation. The published reports and statements of economists of world-wide standing have been in its hands. It has had also the benefit of the accumulated information heretofore gathered by the reparations commission.

"In its work the full committee has held since January 1, 4, 1924, forty-eight meetings. The sub-committee on the stabilization of currency, composed of M. Kunderley, M. Emile Franconi and Professor F. Flora, assisted by Mr. Henry M. Robinson and under the chairmanship of Mr. Owen D. Young, has held sixty-eight meetings, and the sub-committee on balance of German budget, composed of E. Alby, Baron Houtart and Dr. Firelli, under the chairmanship of Sir J. C. Stamp, has held sixty meetings. These sub-committees have also had the assistance of Mr. Andrew McFadyen, the general secretary of the reparations commission. The

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Notice is hereby given, That that certain mortgage, executed and delivered by Jakob Sattler and Christina Sattler, husband and wife, Mortgagees, to The First National Bank of Harvey, a corporation, Mortgagee, dated May 15th, 1922, and filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Burleigh County, State of North Dakota, on the 14th day of September, 1922, and recorded in Book 174 of Mortgages on page 147, will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises in such mortgage, and hereinafter described, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Bismarck, in the County of Burleigh and State of North Dakota, on the 19th day of May, 1924, at the hour of two o'clock P. M., to satisfy the amount due upon said mortgage on the day of sale. The premises described in said mortgage, and which will be sold to satisfy the same, are situated in the County of Burleigh and State of North Dakota, and described as follows: The West half (W 1/2) of Section 3, Township 144, Range 75, West of the 10th P. M. There will be due on such mortgage on the date of sale the sum of $160.35 for principal and interest, and the sum of $78.45 for interest paid on a prior mortgage to protect the Mortgagee's interests, making the total sum due and for which the above premises will be sold, the sum of $238.80, and the costs of foreclosure and sale.

Dated at Harvey, North Dakota, this 7th day of April, 1924. THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF HARVEY, a corporation. ALOYS WARTNER, Attorney for Mortgagee, Harvey, North Dakota. 4-9-16-23-30-5-7 total of reparations Germany is to pay. This was left expressly out of consideration. The amount fixed by the reparations commission under the Treaty of Versailles in 1921 was 132 billion gold marks less amounts already paid and some afterwards to be credited to her for state properties in ceded territories, etc.

8-HOUR-DAY RULE GIVEN

Does Not Apply to Open Pit Mining Judge Miller Holds

Minot, N. D., April 9.—A decree permanently prohibiting the enforcement of the state law specifying that not over eight hours shall constitute a day's work on all works or undertakings in any coal mine or open pit mine insofar as it affects open pit or strip mines in the State of North Dakota, is expected to be signed by Judge Andrew Miller of the federal court before leaving Minot for Fargo after having completed a short court session here.

Judge Miller held yesterday that that section of the law pertaining to open pit or strip mining is void and in conflict with the 5th and 14th amendments to the constitution of the United States. The decision was made in a case brought by the Traux Coal company of Columbus, against J. P. Mellon, state mine inspector, and others.

Judge Miller announced that he would sign a decree adjudging the law to be unconstitutional and permanently enjoining the state mine inspector, the attorney general and the state attorney of Burke county and their successors in office from enforcing or attempting to enforce it.

The plaintiff, through its attorneys, McGee & Goss of Minot, contended the law should not be made applicable to open pit mining but rather that its provisions should apply to subterranean mining where the environments of the workers are widely different.

The report does not go into the details of the recovery of the provisions from the German government.

Summarizing the proceeds from all the provisions in the plan for treaty payments, the experts estimate that they will produce one billion gold marks the first year; one billion two hundred and twenty billion the second year; one billion four hundred and fifty billion the third year; two billion five hundred million; the maximum payment to be required from Germany annually, the fifth year, and thereafter.

A Wet Day Causes One-Third More Calls

Rainy days often cause one-third more telephone calls. On such days, more people remain indoors and use the telephone.

Likewise, hot days and very cold days mean that many more telephone calls will be made.

Show storms, also, add to the problem of providing service. At such times it is difficult for the operators to get to work, while at the same time many more telephone calls are made. And frequently bad storms tear down poles and wires, shutting off telephone service.

Uniformly satisfactory telephone service is our constant aim, but occasionally conditions arise which are temporarily beyond all human control. At such a time we especially appreciate the patience of our patrons until the situation can be met.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE TALKED

Plan Discussed by Committee Prominent Man Gives Tanlae Credit For Helping Him Win Battle With Stomach Trouble.

The proposition of a city baseball league for the coming summer was discussed in a meeting by a committee at the A. J. C. building, Tuesday afternoon. The committee, composed of C. W. McDaniel, chairman, George Bird, H. J. Woodhouse, L. S. Russell and J. J. MacLean, talked over plans for organizing the league, to play during the summer.

It was decided by the committee to approach the experience of other cities which have tried summer leagues.

MARKET NEWS GRAIN PRICES TAKE DROP

Good Weather Reports Are Bearish Factors Again

Chicago, April 9.—Grain prices underwent a little setback during the early decline. Fine weather continued to be the chief influence, with trade lacking volume. No definite effect on values apparently resulted from publication of the summaries of the Iowa report, although some foreign selling of wheat here was noted. Wheat opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 1-1/2c to 1-3/4c lower, May $1.05 7/8 and July $1.02 5/8 to $1.03 3/4 were followed by a slight rally and then another sag.

Subsequently there was a notable loss of interest in buying and further declines were witnessed. The price was quoted at 1-1/2c to 1-3/4c lower, May $1.05 7/8 to $1.02 5/8 and July $1.02 5/8 to $1.03 3/4.

MINNEAPOLIS FLOUR Minneapolis, April 9.—Flour unchanged. Shipments 11,470 barrels. Bran $2.20.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK Chicago, April 9.—Hog receipts 15,000. Sows mostly five cents higher than yesterday's average. Bulk and loose $7.50 to $7.75. Top light and heavy $7.50.

KANSAS BANKER TELLS HOW HE WON FIGHT

Time of the committee, outside of that consumed by its meetings, has been given largely to investigation and study.

In speaking of my colleagues and bearing upon the value of this report, I feel that I should make known to the reparations commission and to the world that their government has in no case limited their complete independence of the judgment and action, either before or after their appointment by the reparations commission. Limited only by the powers granted by the commission, each of my colleagues has performed his work as a free agent; these men searching for truth and advice thereon were available only to their conscience. In granting this freedom, the governments have on the same lines followed the commission spirit and intent in constituting the committee, but in so doing they have paid the highest tribute which governments can bestow; namely, complete confidence in a time of crisis in human affairs. In their vision, in their independence of thought, and above all in their spirit of high and sincere purpose, which rises above the small things over which the small men often stumble, my colleagues have shown themselves worthy of this trust.

That their work, which I now place in the commission's hands, may assist in the discharge of the commission's great responsibilities is their prayer and the knowledge hereafter that it has done so will be their full reward.

(Signed) CHARLES G. DAWES, Chairman.

8-HOUR-DAY RULE GIVEN

Does Not Apply to Open Pit Mining Judge Miller Holds

Minot, N. D., April 9.—A decree permanently prohibiting the enforcement of the state law specifying that not over eight hours shall constitute a day's work on all works or undertakings in any coal mine or open pit mine insofar as it affects open pit or strip mines in the State of North Dakota, is expected to be signed by Judge Andrew Miller of the federal court hereafter having completed a short session here.

Judge Miller held yesterday that that section of the law pertaining to open pit or strip mining is void and in conflict with the 5th and 14th amendments to the constitution of the United States. The decision was made in a case brought by the Traux Coal company of Columbus, against J. P. Mellon, state mine inspector, and others.

Judge Miller announced that he would sign a decree adjudging the law to be unconstitutional and permanently enjoining the state mine inspector, the attorney general and the state's attorney of Burke county and their successors in office from enforcing or attempting to enforce it.

The plaintiff, through its attorneys, McGee & Goss of Minot, contended the law should not be made applicable to open pit mining but rather that its provisions should apply to subterranean mining where the environment of the workers are widely different.

A Wet Day Causes One-Third More Calls

Rainy days often cause one-third more telephone calls. On such days, more people remain indoors and use the telephone. Likewise, hot days and very cold days mean that many more telephone calls will be made. Snow storms, also, add to the problem of providing service. At such times it is difficult for the operators to get to work, while at the same time many more telephone calls are made. And frequently bad storms tear down poles and wires, shutting off telephone service. Uniformly satisfactory telephone service is our constant aim, but occasionally conditions arise which are temporarily beyond all human control. At such a time we especially appreciate the patience of our patrons until the situation can be met.

Oil Committee Continues Its Pursuit Into the Report of Influence in 1920

Washington, April 9.—Further inquiry into reports of "deals" at the Republican national convention at Chicago and 1920 was made today by the Senate oil committee.

J. A. Baughn of Harlingen, Texas, formerly an oil operator of Oklahoma, testified that the late Jake L. Hamon, Republican national committeeman of Oklahoma, told him he had signed the check that resulted in the nomination of Warren G. Harding. This conversation took place after the Chicago convention, Baughn said.

He quoted Hamon as saying that he would spend one billion dollars if necessary to put Oklahoma in the Republican column in the general election.

William H. Miller, Columbus, Ohio, testified that he assisted in Harding's pre-convention campaign, visiting the northwestern states. He first met Hamon at Harding's headquarters in Indianapolis before the convention and later saw him at the Chicago convention.

"I had no part in the collection or disbursement of funds," Miller said.

J. B. French of Oklahoma City testified last Monday that Hamon told him he had given $25,000 to Miller to pay the headquarters expenses of the Harding committee at Chicago.

There was no discussion of oil lands or leases at either of his meetings with Hamon, Miller said. Hamon told him at the Indianapolis meeting that he was for law, but added that Mrs. Hamon was a distant relative of Mr. Harding and that he was importuned to support Harding. The witness then denied specifically that Hamon had given $25,000 to the Harding fund.

$10 PRIZE IS OFFERED FOR SELLING TALK

A $10 cash prize offered tonight to the member of the sales instruction school of the Lahr Motor Sales Company who gives the best selling talk on the merits of an Overland car will bring interest in the school, which opened April 1, to a high pitch. The award will be decided by the class itself, any member being eligible to compete.

W. M. Buck, factory representative of the Willys-Overland Company, who is conducting the class, declared the advancement made by members was above the average. Methods of salesmanship and the manner of presenting the merits of the product offered have been given in the classes.

His experience throughout the country has taught him, Mr. Buck told members of the class, that a student of salesmanship to get the best results from his efforts must first master self-confidence. The salesmanship school here, he said, has developed a happy group of really interested men who are anxious to better themselves mentally and financially. The instruction was offered without charge by the Lahr Motor Sales Co.

SAM H. CLARK LAUNCHES NEW PUBLICATION

Sam H. Clark, founder and publisher of Jim Jam Jeans is launching a new publication from Minneapolis. He has christened it Follyology. It will be of standard size with four color process cover, printed on colored paper with sumptuous rotogravure and art features. It will be largely devoted to the humor of life with stories of interest and with comments on current topics in Clark's well known vein. Jim Jam Jeans will, as hitherto, be published from Bismarck under the management of Wallace Campbell. Follyology will appear on the newsstands the twentieth of this month. Due to the large system of distribution already built up by Jim Jam Jeans Follyology will have a large output from its first issue.

Ingrown Toe Nail Turns Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

LOCAL MUSIC MAKERS ENJOY TRIP TO ORIENT

Bismarck musicians in the "North Star Music Makers," five-piece orchestra, who landed in Seattle April 5 after a tour of the Orient on the President Madison, will return in a short time. All the musicians, which include Igoi Thayer, A. E. Flemer and Harry Smith of Bismarck, and Archie McPherson, report a fine cruise. According to word received here, they received nice notices in the "Japan Advertiser" and "Manila Times" for their playing, as the best five-piece orchestra that had come to the Orient.

The local musicians played at the Oriental Hotel in Kobe, and were offered 200 yen to play an extra hour. They also played at "The Parisian" cafe in Shanghai, and was the only orchestra from an American host invited to play in the grill room of the Hong Kong hotel. At Manila they played for the Governor-General's ball at the Army and Navy club, and were offered a six months contract by the club. They played at Prince Yumoto's formal butterfly dance, according to word from the members of the orchestra.

One of the passengers on the boat was Carrie Jacobs Bond, who wrote "End of a Perfect Day." The orchestra played the piece during a dinner hour and received her personal compliments. The orchestra was offered another trip on the President Madison and before they landed received a purse from the passengers.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.
